

Vocational Services Outcomes 2006

The Vocational Services program reviews program quality and outcomes on a quarterly and annual basis. The data is used to improve our performance and provide realistic and effective services. In 2006, 53% of persons referred for vocational evaluations or situational assessments demonstrated the ability to obtain employment with assistance, modifications, or accommodations. 31% were recommended to participate in a training program, either vocational or community college, and then obtain employment in their area of training. Only 14% were deemed too severely limited to pursue competitive employment.